

Library Card Eligibility

Skagit County does not have a county-wide library system. Borrowers living in a library taxing district, or within the city limits of a city supporting a library, may get a library card. One must show their home library card as well as provide the following proof of identification and residency:

Identification

- Social Security Card
- Birth Certificate
- Driver's License
- Military ID
- School or College ID
- School Report Card or Schedule
- Shot Record
- Health Insurance Card
- State issued ID
- Selective Service Card
- Non-expired credit card

Residency

- Current utility bill with name and address
- Checkbook with name and address
- Current tax receipt
- Lease or rental agreement
- Mortgage document
- Automobile registration
- Voter registration card with address
- Mail (e.g., statements, invoices, bills) with name, address, and current date 30 days or less)

Residents of areas not supporting a city library or district library through property taxes are ineligible for a free library card. Providing services to patrons who do not pay taxes to support library services is considered gifting of public funds by the Washington State Auditor's Office. Taxing districts, such as a library, fire or dike districts, cannot take tax money from one jurisdiction to provide services outside of their jurisdiction without policies or interlocal agreements in place with other taxing districts. Those citizens living in areas not paying into a library district may contact Skagit County to find out how to organize a taxing district.

To find out if you live in a library taxing district:

Check Property Search: Go to <http://www.skagitcounty.net/Search/property/> and enter property address. Click on the tab TAXES and look for a library taxing district or city supporting a city library in the list in the list of Property Tax, Assessments and Fees. Note that postal code zones extend beyond the boundaries of many taxing districts. Non-residents must pay $40, subject to change by Board decision. Patrons who purchase library cards at area libraries are not eligible for reciprocal borrowing privileges at other libraries.

Example of a tax record NOT paying into a library district. Note that Skagit County taxes do not include support of a library as Skagit County does not have a county-wide system. Multiple attempts have been made by Skagit citizens to form a county library system, but those election campaigns did not receive enough votes to pass.
